Organizational Effectiveness: Leading with Vision

Educator grows as a leader with vision for themselves and the vision, mission, and values for their association on a local, state, and/or national level.

Key Method

The educator uses the Learn-Design-Do-Reflect Cycle to deepen their understanding of their own personal strengths, leadership styles, and passions and sees the roles these play in developing trust and credibility with peers. They also explore opportunities for their own teacher leadership, accept the possibility of adversity, and broaden their vision and the vision of the association.

Method Components

Association leadership means understanding how to create and guide meaningful, positive, and powerful collective action. It means learning to lead members of large, culturally diverse, and engaged groups and steering the activities of those members in the direction of desired change. Within the context of the association, teacher leaders can build bridges with administrators and other stakeholders in order to advance quality instructional practice and the right policies to make that practice possible.

- Design - Design an action plan that addresses at least one of the needs of your school, district, or state.
- Do - Implement your plan and collect information and evidence about the challenges and successes of your implementation.
Reflect - Take time to reflect on the outcomes and the process of implementation of your action plan and consider next steps.

Supporting Research

This book emphasizes the importance of leaders (using the U.S. Army as an example of a world-class organization in need of transformation) in the development of cultures that are conducive to leadership development.

This seminal book examines the characteristics of designing work around organizational goals and missions. This research comes from the organizational sciences and has direct application for how work is organized for associations.

Hattie makes a strong case for collaborative expertise based on his meta-analyses of effective teaching practices and builds on his visible learning work.

“Teachers working in schools with strong professional environments improved, over 10 years, 38% more than teachers in schools with weak professional environments.”

- How did the teacher leader engage you in leading with vision?
- What were the intended outcomes, and to what degree were the outcomes achieved?
